DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 21 is objected to because of the following informalities:

Regarding claim 22, lines 1-2, "A computer readable medium having stored therein computer readable program code comprising instructions for performing the following steps:" is unacceptable because it is not known what device executes these instructions. Therefore, the appropriate correction is required. For example, "A computer readable medium having stored therein computer readable program code comprising instructions executed by a processor for performing the following steps:"

a fax gateway including (see Figs. 1 and 2, element 14),

Art Unit: 2619

- (a) a storage device for storing an e-mail message received from an e-mail sender for transmission to a fax recipient through a packet switching network, the stored e-mail message to be converted to a fax document for transmission thereof to the fax recipient having access to a fax device (see Figs. 1 and 2, elements 23, 25, col. 2, lines 59-67, and col. 3, lines 1-13);
- (b) at least one the modem device for transmitting the fax document to the fax recipient through a public switching network, wherein a fax number designating the fax recipient is obtained of separately from the e-mail (see Fig. 2, element 28, col. 3, lines 13-15).

Regarding amended claim 2, Toyoda discloses an Advanced research projects agency (ARPA)-Internet network access/service provider device comprising:

- a fax gateway including (see Figs. 1 and 2, element 14)
- (a) a storage device for storing an e-mail message received from an e-mail sender for transmission to a fax recipient through a packet switching network, the stored e-mail message to be converted to a fax document to transmission thereof to the fax recipient having access to a fax device (see Figs. 1 and 2, elements 23, 25, col. 2, lines 59-67, and col. 3, lines 1-13);

- (c) where the storage device is enabled to store a the fax number, the fax number associated with the fax device of the fax recipient, the fax number to be used to establish a call for the transmission of the fax document (see Figs. 2, 3, and 5bcol. 3, lines 41-49, 57-62, and col. 5, lines 16-27).

Art Unit: 2619

Regarding amended claim 10, Toyoda discloses the fax gateway is coupled to the public switching telephone network (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 50-56).

Regarding claim 11, Toyoda discloses the fax gateway is coupled to the public switching telephone network through a digital communications link (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 50-56).

Regarding amended claim 12, Toyoda discloses the fax gateway is coupled to the packet switching network through a digital communications link (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 50-56).

Regarding amended claims 13-15, Toyoda discloses the storage device is a computer system having a conversion program to convert the e-mail message to a fax document (see Figs. 2 and 3, col. 3, lines 12-14, and col. 5, lines 5-15).

Regarding amended claim 17, Toyoda discloses a method for sending and receiving e-mail messages using a fax device comprising:

- (a) receiving an e-mail message through a data communications network from an e-mail sender (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 57-59);
- (b) converting the e-mail message into a fax document (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 59-64);
- (c) retrieving a destination fax number of a fax recipient separate from the e-mail message (see Fig. 3, col. 3, lines 41-49);
- (d) transmitting the fax document to a the fax recipient thereby enabling the fax recipient to receive e-mail messages without access to the data networking network (see Figs. 1 and 7, col. 4, lines 27-67, and col. 5, lines 1-27).

Art Unit: 2619

Regarding amended claim 21, Toyoda discloses a computer readable medium having stored therein computer readable program code comprising instructions for performing the following steps:

- (a) receiving an e-mail message, from through a data communications network (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 57-59);
- (b) converting the e-mail message into a fax document (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 59-64);
- (c) retrieving a destination fax number of a fax recipient separate from the e-mail message (see Fig. 3, col. 3, lines 41-49);
- (d) transmitting the fax document to a the fax recipient thereby enabling the fax recipient to receive e-mail messages without access to the data networking network (see Figs. 1 and 7, col. 4, lines 27-67, and col. 5, lines 1-27).

Regarding amended claim 22, Toyoda discloses a device comprising:

- (a) means for receiving an e-mail message, from through a data communications network (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 57-59);
- (b) means for converting the e-mail message into a fax document (see Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 59-64);
- (c) means for retrieving a destination fax number of a fax recipient separate from of the e-mail message (see Fig. 3, col. 3, lines 41-49);
- (d) means for transmitting the fax document to a the fax recipient thereby enabling the fax recipient to receive e-mail messages without access to the data networking network (see Figs. 1 and 7, col. 4, lines 27-67, and col. 5, lines 1-27).

Art Unit: 2619

Regarding claims 25 and 27, Toyoda discloses the ARPA-Internet network access/service provider device is enabled to obtain the fax number based, at least in part, on a look-up of an intended recipient of the e-mail message (see Figs. 5b-7, col. 3, lines 57-67, and col. 4, lines 13-49).

Regarding claims 26 and 28, Toyoda discloses the intended recipient of the e-mail message is identified in a To field of the e-mail message (see Figs. 3 and 5b, col. 3, lines 21-38, 57-67).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 3, 4, 7, 8, 29, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent 6,330,070 (hereinafter referred as "Toyoda") in view of US Patent 6,417,930 (hereinafter referred as "Mori").

Regarding amended claims 3 and 4, Toyoda discloses an advanced research projects agency (ARPA)-Internet network access/service provider device comprising:

a fax gateway including

(a) a storage device for storing an e-mail message received from an e-mail sender for transmission to a fax recipient through a packet switching network, the stored e-mail message to be converted to a fax document for transmission thereof to the fax recipient having access to a fax device (see Figs. 1 and 2, elements 23, 25, col. 2, lines 59-67, and col. 3, lines 1-13);

Art Unit: 2619

(b) at least one fax modem device for transmitting the fax document to the fax recipient through a public switching network, where a fax number designating the fax recipient is obtained separately from the e-mail (see Fig. 2, element 28, col. 3, lines 13-15).

Toyoda does not disclose the storage device is a time-of-day for specifying a range of time during which the fax document is transmitted. Mori discloses the storage device is the time-of-day for specifying a range of time during which the fax document is transmitted (see Fig. 4, col. 7, lines 50-67, col. 8, lines 1-8). At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine the time-of-day for specifying a range of time during which the fax document is transmitted teaching by Mori with Toyoda. The motivation for doing so would have been to provide to analyze the received e-mail to determine if it is relay transmission mail read on abstract. Therefore, it would have been obvious to combine Mori and Toyoda to obtain the invention as specified in the claim 3.

Regarding amended claims 7, 8, claims 29, and 30, Toyoda does not disclose the assigns an e-mail address to the fax recipient, the e-mail address being associated with the fax number and where the fax cover page includes a destination field extracted from the fax recipient e-mail address. However, Mori discloses the assigns the e-mail address to the fax recipient, the e-mail address being associated with the fax number and where the fax cover page includes a destination field extracted from the fax recipient e-mail address (see Fig. 4, col. 7, lines 50-67, and col. 8, lines 1-8). At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine xxx teaching by Mori with Toyoda. The motivation for doing so would have been to provide to analyze the received e-mail to determine if it is relay transmission mail read on abstract. Therefore, it would have been obvious to combine Mori and Toyoda to obtain the invention as specified in the claims 7, 8, 29, and 30.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 9, 16, 18-20, 23, and 24 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 10-15, 21, and 22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
